LETTER FROM THE DIRECTORS

It is with great excitement we welcome you to the Portsmouth School of Ballet's production of "Swan Lake" and Spring Show "Dance Celebration".

Recital conjures images of childhood for many. This recital is a rite of passage for many young students to shine in front of family and friends, allowing them to present their year of hard work, dedication, and progress.

We are incredibly proud of all our students here at PSB. Thank you for allowing us to be a part of your children's lives and for letting us share our passion of dance with all of you!

Enjoy the show!

-Ilya and Emily

Swan lake
Saturday, June 6
Synopsis

Act I, Scene I

Prince Siegfried is celebrating his twenty-first birthday with friends and family when the Queen Mother arrives with a special gift—a crossbow. She reminds him that as the future King, he must fulfill his royal duty and choose a bride at the grand ball the following evening. Though she encourages him to enjoy the celebration, her words weigh heavily on him. Realizing his carefree youth is coming to an end, Siegfried leaves the festivities and seeks peace in the quiet forest.

Act I, Scene II

Alone beneath the moonlight, Prince Siegfried enters a clearing beside a shimmering lake and sees a magnificent swan soaring overhead. He carefully raises his crossbow, but before he can act, the swan transforms into a breathtaking young woman. Hidden among the trees, he watches in amazement before stepping forward and startling her.

The young woman is Princess Odette. Gently, Siegfried assures her he means no harm and asks how such magic can be possible. Trusting his kindness, Odette reveals her tragic fate. She is a princess cursed by the evil sorcerer Von Rothbart and condemned to live as a swan by day. Only beneath the cover of darkness may she return to her human form. The enchanted lake itself was formed from her mother's tears.

Odette explains that only true love can break the spell. If a young man promises his eternal devotion and remains faithful to her, she will be freed forever. But if that vow is broken, she will remain trapped under the curse for eternity.

Moved by her story, Prince Siegfried promises his love and invites her to attend his birthday celebration the following evening so he may declare his devotion before the royal court. As dawn approaches, Odette is forced once more into the form of a swan and disappears across the lake, leaving Siegfried determined to save her.

Act II, Scene I

The next evening, heralds announce the beginning of the royal ball. Princesses from distant lands arrive to meet Prince Siegfried, each hoping to become his bride. They perform magnificent dances while the Queen Mother reminds her son of his royal responsibility. Though surrounded by beauty and celebration, Siegfried's thoughts remain only with Odette.

Suddenly, an unexpected guest arrives—Von Rothbart and his daughter, Odile. Through dark magic, Odile bears a striking resemblance to Odette. Captivated by the deception, Siegfried is drawn to her and, under Rothbart’s spell, declares his intention to marry Odile.

Too late, he realizes he has been tricked.

As the celebration darkens around him, Siegfried catches sight of Odette at the castle entrance, heartbroken and in tears. Overcome with grief, he races to the enchanted lake to find her.

Act II, Scene II

A fierce storm rages as Siegfried reaches the forest glade. He finds Odette and begs for forgiveness. Though heartbroken, she forgives him. Suddenly, Von Rothbart emerges from the darkness and attacks.

A great battle follows. With courage and strength, Prince Siegfried confronts the evil sorcerer and breaks his power, shattering the magic that bound Odette and the enchanted swans. As the sun rises over the lake, the curse begins to fade.

Prince Siegfried turns and sees Odette standing before him—not as a swan, but as her true self once more.

The spell has been broken.

Together, Prince Siegfried and Princess Odette return home, where love triumphs over darkness, and they live happily ever after.
